

AWAYS

PREMIUM PERSONAL STYLE REPORT

Hard Natural

A bold frame built for confident, oversized style. Your personalized style guide.

HARD NATURAL

Strength & ease in bold harmony

22-PAGE STYLE GUIDE

FOR YOU

What's inside

A complete style playbook in 6 chapters. You don't have to read it cover-to-cover. Pick the chapter you need today, and come back for the rest as you go.

01	Understanding your body type Your 3 Hard Natural signatures · diagnostic score breakdown	P. 04
02	Silhouette & fit secrets Golden formula · what flatters · what to avoid	P. 06
03	The right fabrics & colors 7 fabrics for you · pattern guide · base color palette	P. 08
04	5 everyday outfit formulas Office · meeting · business casual · presentation · weekend	P. 10
05	Essential shopping checklist 12 must-have items · brand recommendations · price tiers	P. 13
06	Year-round styling + Q&A Seasonal essentials · clearing up common myths	P. 15

01

CHAPTER ONE

Understanding your body

Dressing well starts with knowing your body — not what's on trend.

Before asking what suits you, you need to understand how your frame is actually shaped. This chapter unpacks the three core characteristics of the Hard Natural body type in detail.

CHAPTER 01 · BODY UNDERSTANDING

You are Hard Natural

Hard Natural is the body type built for scale and presence. Your frame is strong — broad shoulders, defined collarbones, athletic proportions — and your overall line reads bold rather than delicate. The result is a silhouette that commands a room without trying. Your job isn't to soften or shrink yourself; it's to lean into the architectural quality your body is already showing.

"Some bodies were built for scale. The moment you stop trying to look smaller, your most striking silhouette emerges."

— YOUR STYLE DIAGNOSIS

01 The 3 signatures of your body type

01 A strong, defined upper frame

Your shoulders sit broad and squared, your collarbones read clearly, and your upper body carries presence. This frame is what makes oversized blazers, statement coats, and structured outerwear look intentional and powerful on you. Trying to hide it with delicate fitted pieces creates a mismatch — they look small where your body is asking for scale.

02 Athletic, lean proportions

Your body reads athletic — limbs that look long and capable, a frame that's strong rather than soft. This is exactly why wide-leg trousers, long coats, and bold silhouettes sit so naturally on you. Tight, body-conscious pieces tend to fight this athletic line; pieces with scale and length amplify it.

03 Bold, architectural lines

Your frame has clear angles — wrist bones, ankle bones, jawline all visible. This is your superpower for statement pieces and bold tailoring. Soft, romantic pieces (puff sleeves, ruffles, tiny prints) can read undersized on your scale. Big shapes, clean lines, and confident silhouettes are exactly where you live.

Your diagnostic score

DIRECTION

Natural

TEXTURE

Hard

Your result is the synthesis of 15 questions analyzed together. Each answer carries a weighted score across body direction (Straight / Wave / Natural) and texture (Hard / Soft). Your final type is the highest-scoring match.

HARD NATURAL IN NUMBERS

Hard Natural is one of the most underdressed body types globally — most women with this frame have spent years trying to look smaller in fitted clothing that fights their line. The truth is the opposite: scale, length, and bold silhouettes are exactly what works.

02 Why this result

Your responses showed strong Natural direction for three reasons. First, your waist-to-hip difference reads gentle rather than dramatic. Second, your shoulders feel proportionally strong relative to your hips. Third, oversized cuts tend to look intentional on you. These three signals are the clearest indicators of a Natural body type.

Your Hard texture result came from answers about wrist firmness, visible bone structure, and athletic muscle tone — your body reads as frame first, flesh second. Combined with the Natural direction, this gives you the Hard Natural classification.

03 How you differ from other types

Aspect	Hard Natural (you)	Soft Natural	Hard Wave
Core feature	Strong frame + natural ease	Soft volume + natural ease	Curves + firm structure
Best fits	Oversized, statement, bold	Drapey, layered, mid-relaxed	Fitted + structured
What to avoid	Fitted feminine pieces, dainty details	Tight body-hugging, rigid tailoring	Drapey, fluid fabrics
Style keyword	Bold	Effortless	Sharp

Hard Natural is often described as the body type built for runway styling — the silhouettes that look 'too much' on others look exactly right on you. The key isn't to scale down to feel smaller; it's to match your styling to your frame. The next chapter shows you the silhouettes that let your scale do the work.

02

CHAPTER TWO

The golden ratio of fit

Dressing well, in the end, is about understanding fit. The same garment can read completely differently depending on how it sits on you. This chapter shows you which silhouettes amplify a Hard Natural frame — and which ones you should walk past in the store.

CHAPTER 02 · SILHOUETTE & FIT

The secret to a flattering silhouette

01 Your golden formula

"Scale + length + clean lines."

— YOUR FIT FORMULA

The single most flattering formula for Hard Natural is statement outer + slim base + long line. You're not nipping the waist or adding ruffles — you're using scale and length to amplify the architecture your body already has. This is the silhouette every fashion-forward brand styles its tallest models in, because it works.

YES

Oversized blazer + slim trouser — scale up top, clean line below

YES

Long statement coat over slim base — long vertical line

WHY THIS WORKS

When scale lives at the shoulders and the line drops cleanly down, your strong frame reads as intentional architecture instead of broad shoulders to hide. The eye registers presence, not bulk. This is why oversized blazers look powerful on Hard Natural bodies in a way they never do on smaller frames.

02 Fits that flatter you

These silhouettes work with your frame, not against it. When in doubt at the store, default to one of these.

OVERSIZED BLAZER

Scale matches your shoulders

LONG STATEMENT COAT

Extends your line, amplifies presence

WIDE-LEG TROUSER

Drapes cleanly from a strong frame

LONG SHIRT DRESS

Vertical line + scale = your signature

03 Fits to avoid

These fits flatten or fight your scale. Most styling regrets come from one of these.

FITTED BODYCON

Cuts against your athletic line

PUFF-SLEEVE BLOUSE

Adds dainty volume to a strong shoulder

DAINTY WRAP DRESS

Wrong scale for your frame

CROPPED FITTED TOP

Highlights what wide-leg pant softens

03

CHAPTER THREE

Fabrics & colors made for you

The same design in a different fabric can fit completely differently. Hard Natural bodies look best in fabrics with weight and texture. Thin, delicate fabrics fight your strong frame and make pieces look undersized rather than intentional.

CHAPTER 03 · FABRIC & COLOR

The right fabrics

Hard Natural looks most at home in fabrics that have weight and presence. Thin silks and delicate jerseys disappear against your frame. Substantial fabrics meet your scale.

HEAVY WOOL

Substantial wool for coats and statement blazers.

RAW DENIM

Rigid, structured denim that holds bold silhouettes.

HEAVY COTTON CANVAS

Workwear-weight cotton for jackets and pants.

LEATHER

Substantial leather, not soft drapey leather.

TWEED & BOUCLE

Texture and weight that match your scale.

WOOL GABARDINE

Suiting fabric with body for tailored statements.

FABRICS TO SKIP

Thin silk charmeuse, lightweight chiffon, and delicate jersey tend to look undersized against your frame. They photograph beautifully on a delicate body and disappear on yours. If a fabric feels weightless in your hand, it'll feel out of scale on your body.

Your color palette

Bold, deep tones and high-contrast neutrals complement your scale. Your natural palette skews toward strong and architectural rather than soft or muted.

True Black
#1A1714

Pure White
#F8F6F1

Forest Green
#2C4A3A

Cognac
#8C5A3C

Charcoal
#3A3A3A

Deep Camel
#A07A4D

02 How to use these colors

Build outfits around black, charcoal, and pure white as your everyday base. They match your boldness and read commanding rather than busy.

Use cognac and forest green for depth and warmth — they bring richness without softening your line, and pair beautifully with your base colors.

Soft pastels like dusty pink and pale blue can read undersized against your scale. If you love them, use them in large blocks (a whole oversized blazer, a long coat) — never as small accents on a busy outfit.

COLORS THAT FIGHT YOUR SCALE

Tiny floral prints, pastel polka dots, and busy small-scale patterns can read mismatched against your frame. If you love prints, choose large-scale ones — bold stripes, big florals, oversized checks. Scale should match scale.

04

CHAPTER FOUR

5 outfit formulas

Theory is one thing — knowing what to wear on a Tuesday morning is another. Five complete formulas, ready to wear, designed specifically for Hard Natural bodies. Steal them, mix them, build from them.

CHAPTER 04 · OUTFIT FORMULAS

5 outfit formulas

MEETINGS · FORMAL MOMENTS

FORMULA 01

The commanding meeting look

"When you need to walk in and be remembered"

Oversized blazer + slim trouser + ankle boot

Why this works: An oversized blazer with strong shoulders over a slim trouser is your professional power piece. The blazer's scale matches your frame; the slim trouser keeps the line clean. Pointed ankle boots finish the silhouette with intention. This is the look that gets you taken seriously the moment you enter the room.

PRO TIP

The blazer should hit at mid-thigh, not above the hip. Shorter blazers don't have the length to balance your frame. Longer ones (mid-thigh or below) create the architectural line that flatters your scale.

OFFICE · LUNCH DATES

FORMULA 02

Strong workday look

"Decisive and modern for everyday office days"

Heavy cotton shirt + wide trouser + loafer

Why this works: A substantial cotton shirt (think workwear weight, not delicate) tucked into a wide-leg trouser is a daily uniform that always works. The shirt's weight matches your frame; the wide trouser carries the line down. A clean loafer keeps it grounded and modern.

PRO TIP

Roll the shirt sleeves to the elbow — it shows confidence and exposes your wrist (a strong feature on your frame). Tuck fully or front-tuck; both work, but never leave it untucked over wide pants — it kills the line.

BUSINESS CASUAL

FORMULA 03

Modern business casual

"For client meetings on a regular Wednesday"

Statement coat + slim base + tailored trouser

Why this works: Skip the standard blazer — wear a long statement coat as your top layer. Underneath, a slim turtleneck or fitted knit; below, a tailored trouser. The whole silhouette becomes one continuous architectural line. Coat as outerwear, not a blazer — that's the move.

 PRO TIP

Don't button the coat. An open coat creates the long vertical line; a buttoned one cuts the silhouette. Roll the cuffs once if the sleeves are long. Add one bold accessory (chunky watch, statement bag) — it amplifies the look instead of competing with it.

PRESENTATIONS · BIG MOMENTS

FORMULA 04

The architectural presence

"When you need to be the most striking person in the room"

Long shirt dress + leather belt + ankle boot

Why this works: A long shirt dress in heavy cotton or wool blend, belted at the waist with a wide leather belt, becomes your statement piece. The dress provides the architectural shape; the wide belt adds intention without forcing a feminine waist. Ankle boots ground it.

 PRO TIP

Choose a dress that hits below the knee — mini-length doesn't have the scale your frame needs. The wider the leather belt (within reason), the more your frame agrees with it. Skinny belts get lost on you.

FRIDAY · CASUAL DAY

FORMULA 05

Friday off-duty look*"Effortless but unmistakably you"Vintage band tee + raw denim + leather jacket

Why this works: A worn-in tee tucked into raw denim with a substantial leather jacket on top — this is the silhouette that makes Hard Naturals look effortlessly cool. The leather jacket's weight and structure match your frame; the rigid denim holds the bold line.

💡 PRO TIP

Choose a leather jacket that hits at the hip or slightly below, never cropped. Cropped leather jackets shorten your strong line; longer ones extend it. The same rule applies to denim jackets.

06 Accessories that workNECKLACE

Long statement chain or layered set

BAG

Large structured tote or oversized hobo

SHOES

Chunky boot or bold loafer

— Necklaces

Bold, architectural pieces land best on you. Chunky chains, long pendants, and layered statement necklaces work with your frame. Tiny delicate chains and small charms can disappear against your scale. If you wear a single piece, make it big enough to register from across the room — that's the right scale for you.

— Bags

Bags with presence and scale harmonize with your frame. Large totes, oversized hobos, and substantial messenger bags all work. Small handbags and tiny crossbodies can read out of scale next to your line. Aim for a bag that has weight and visual presence — same boldness you bring.

— Shoes

Shoes with substantial soles and clean lines are your sweet spot — chunky boots, lug-sole loafers, platform sneakers, ankle boots with sturdy heels. Delicate ballet flats and dainty kitten heels can read undersized against your scale. Pointed pumps work if they have a substantial heel; thin stilettos tend to fight the architecture.

05

CHAPTER FIVE

Essential shopping list

12 pieces that should anchor your wardrobe — plus where to actually buy them. You don't need to replace everything. Use this as a checklist against your current closet and fill the gaps over time, not in one weekend.

CHAPTER 05 · SHOPPING CHECKLIST

Tops & bottoms

These four tops do most of the heavy lifting for any outfit. Get them right and most of your wardrobe falls into place.

01 Tops

ITEM	RECOMMENDED FIT & DETAIL	WHERE TO SHOP
Heavy cotton shirt Substantial weight, clean lines	Heavyweight cotton or twill / oversized cut / clean collar	COS Acne Studios Frame
Slim turtleneck For layering under coats	Merino or wool blend / fitted but not tight / clean ribbed neck	Uniqlo Everlane Theory
Vintage band tee Worn-in, cool	Heavy cotton / slightly oversized / scoop or crew	Madewell Citizens of Humanity Re/Done
Oversized button-down Workwear feel, drapes from shoulder	Heavy cotton or denim / dropped shoulder / hits at hip	COS Acne Studios Aritzia

02 Bottoms

ITEM	RECOMMENDED FIT & DETAIL	WHERE TO SHOP
Raw or rigid denim Structured, holds line	Mid- or high-rise / straight or wide leg / minimal stretch	AGOLDE Levi's A.P.C.
Wide-leg wool trouser Tailored, substantial	Heavy wool blend / sits at waist / wide leg / hem brushes shoes	The Frankie Shop COS Theory
Tailored straight trouser Sharp line, minimal break	Wool gabardine / sits at waist / falls straight / cropped at ankle	Theory COS Banana Republic
Workwear chino Heavy cotton, structured	Heavy cotton / sits at waist / wide or straight leg	Carhartt WIP Dickies COS

Outerwear & dresses

Outerwear is what you're seen in for half the year. These four pieces do the work for any season.

ITEM	RECOMMENDED FIT & DETAIL	WHERE TO SHOP
Oversized blazer Strong shoulder, hits mid-thigh	Heavy wool blend / structured shoulder / 1-2 button / longer cut	The Frankie Shop TotemeCOS
Long statement coat Wool, drapes from shoulder	Heavy wool / mid-calf or longer / clean lines / drops from shoulder	Max MaraToteme COS
Substantial leather jacket Hits at hip, not cropped	Real leather / structured shoulder / hip-length / clean lines	Acne StudiosAllSaints Frame
Workwear chore jacket Boxy, heavyweight	Heavy cotton / dropped shoulder / hits at hip / oversized cut	Carhartt WIPA.P.C. Dickies

HOW TO PRIORITIZE WHEN BUDGET IS LIMITED

If you're starting from scratch, build in this order: (1) oversized blazer, (2) wide-leg wool trouser, (3) heavy cotton shirt. These three pieces alone will get you through 80% of your week. Add raw denim and long statement coat next. Save leather jacket and tailored trouser for last — they're amazing but more situational. Don't buy everything at once; let your wardrobe build over a season or two.

06

CHAPTER SIX

Year-round & common questions

Stay consistent through every season, and clear up the most common Hard Natural styling myths in one place. After this chapter, you won't second-guess yourself in front of the mirror anymore.

CHAPTER 06 · SEASONS & FAQ

Year-round style guide

SPRING

KEY ITEMS

Workwear chore jacket, wide trouser, heavy cotton shirt

STYLE TIP

Layer a heavy cotton shirt under an open chore jacket — workwear styling is exactly your sweet spot. Wide trousers in stone or olive complete it. Don't let the seasonal urge for pastels pull you toward delicate pieces.

COLORS

Stone, olive, cognac, true white

SUMMER

KEY ITEMS

Heavy cotton shirt, wide-leg shorts, vintage tee

STYLE TIP

Lean into heavyweight cotton even in summer — it photographs and fits better than thin breezy fabrics on your frame. A vintage tee + wide-leg short + chunky sandal is your hot-day uniform.

COLORS

True white, cognac, charcoal, forest green

AUTUMN

KEY ITEMS

Oversized blazer, raw denim, ankle boots

STYLE TIP

Layer a slim turtleneck under an oversized blazer with raw denim — the most universally flattering autumn formula for your body. Chunky ankle boots in leather complete it.

COLORS

Cognac, charcoal, forest green, deep camel

WINTER

KEY ITEMS

Long statement coat, cashmere knit, chunky boots

STYLE TIP

A long statement coat is your winter signature. Don't belt it — let it fall straight from the shoulder for the long architectural line. Chunky boots in leather, never delicate booties.

COLORS

True black, charcoal, forest green, cognac

TRANSITIONING BETWEEN SEASONS

Between-season transitions are all about layering with weight. Use the 3-layer rule: slim base + heavy middle + statement outer. A turtleneck + oversized blazer + long coat is sharper and more practical than a single bulky piece.

Clearing up common myths

Q Don't oversized clothes make me look bigger?

A For Hard Natural bodies, oversized done right makes you look more intentional, not bigger.

The trick is oversized in the right places — long blazers, big coats, wide-leg trousers — paired with a slim base layer. Head-to-toe oversized is what creates the swallowed look. One element of scale, one element of clean line — that's the formula.

Q Can I wear feminine pieces? I don't always want to look 'strong.'

A You can — but choose feminine pieces with scale. A long flowing maxi dress in a substantial fabric works. A delicate puff-sleeve blouse in chiffon does not. Femininity for your frame comes through length, drape, and scale — not through dainty details. Long silk slip dress with a leather jacket is much more flattering than a fitted floral wrap dress.

Q Are skinny jeans okay for me?

A They're not your strongest piece, but they can work as a base. Skinny jeans alone tend to highlight your athletic line in a way that doesn't flatter. Paired with an oversized blazer or long coat, the skinny becomes a slim base for scale on top — and that works. Wide-leg or straight-leg jeans will always be your easier win.

Q I want to look softer sometimes — how?

A Soften with fabric and color, not silhouette. Switch raw denim for soft washed denim. Switch black for cognac or deep camel. Add a soft cashmere knit instead of a structured shirt. But keep the oversized silhouette — switching to fitted feminine pieces doesn't make you look softer, it makes you look like you're wearing the wrong clothes.

Q I gain weight easily — how should I dress when I do?

A The same way, just lean further into oversized. Don't switch to fitted clothing when you gain — that always makes things worse for Hard Natural bodies. Long coats, oversized blazers, wide-leg trousers in heavy fabrics still work — and the scale forgives where fitted wouldn't. Stay in your colors, just go slightly darker (true black, charcoal) for a slimming illusion.

Q Everyone says I should belt my waist — should I?

A Usually no, sometimes yes — and only with a wide belt. Hard Natural waists don't have the dramatic curve to anchor a thin feminine belt. If you want some waist suggestion, use a wide leather belt over a long shirt dress or open coat. Skinny belts get lost on you; wide belts add intention. When in doubt, skip the belt.

FINAL WORDS

Your style is already perfect.

This report is a guide, not a rulebook. Start with the recommended pieces, get comfortable, then make it your own. Two people with the same body type can dress completely differently — and both can look amazing.

The one question that matters: "Does this piece celebrate my strong frame and architectural lines?" Ask yourself this in front of any mirror, and you'll never feel lost in a fitting room again.

Your closet self-audit

Open your closet and check off the 12 items below. The number you check tells you where you are.

— — Tops (4)

- ☐ I have at least 2 heavy cotton shirts (white + one color)
- ☐ I have a slim turtleneck (black, charcoal, or cognac)
- ☐ I have a vintage-feel tee in heavy cotton
- ☐ I have an oversized button-down (workwear feel)

— — Bottoms & dresses (4)

- ☐ I have raw or rigid denim (straight or wide leg)
- ☐ I have a wide-leg wool trouser
- ☐ I have a tailored straight trouser (cropped at ankle)
- ☐ I have a workwear chino (heavy cotton)

— — Outerwear & accessories (4)

- ☐ I have an oversized blazer (mid-thigh length)
- ☐ I have a long statement coat or substantial leather jacket
- ☐ I have chunky boots or bold loafers
- ☐ I have a large structured tote or oversized hobo

WHAT YOUR SCORE MEANS

10–12 checked · You're a closet master. Just refine your styling ✨

6–9 checked · Strong foundation. Add 1–2 missing pieces at a time.

3–5 checked · Just getting started. Follow the priority guide on P. 17.

0–2 checked · A fresh-start opportunity. Go slow — don't buy everything at once.

FOR YOU

Style is a journey, not a destination.

You start with a guide,
and over time, you find your own way.

We hope this report makes your first step a little easier.

Questions? awaysbiz@gmail.com

© 2026 AWAYS · PREMIUM STYLE REPORT
HARD NATURAL · GENERATED FOR YOU